He is a young gentleman so well and so favorably known that he scarcely needs any recommendation at our hands, and it is sufficient that we do but call attention to his advertisement and to his very select stock of goods.

The Oyster Supper and Promenade Concert.

At Metropolitan Hall last night, given by a number of the ladies of the city for the benefit of Thompson's Silver Cornet Band, was not as complete a success, financially, as it ought to have been. There was, however, a goodly number present, who enjoyed the oysters and other good things provided: the young men chatted with the girls, of whom there were many in the hall, and the band discoursed excellent music to enliven the occasion. But they didn't promenade much, owing to the fact that some of the younger ones wanted to promenade in figures "balance all," you know, and some of the older objected. The question had not been decided when our reporter left the festive scene.

Robinson passed the Senate vesterday came up for consideration. Mr. Scales took the floor, Mr. Robin aving temporarily withdrawn his motion to lay on the table, and said that he hoped the vote would be reconsidered, and that he proposed to offer a sub stitute which would endorse any peace ful and constitutional solution of the difficulty which might be proposed .-That he heartily approved and concur red in the views expressed by the Sen-ator from Rockingham, yesterday, deprecating legislative intermeddling with the duties and responsibilities of our members of Congress and particularly when questions of constitutional law where involved. That he was anxious as anyone to have a speedy and peaceful solu ion of our difficulties; and he had voted "no" on the passage of the resolutions for the reasons intimated. He considered constitutional questions in a serious light, and did not wish to volun tarily assume responsibilities now devolved upon others more competent with the lights before them to discharge them than we are to give gratuitous ac Mr. Robinson proposed to strike th word "constitutional" from the resolu tions, and argued in their favor in general terms. Mr. Williams had voted for the res olutions yesterday, but would vote for a reconsideration now to attain the ob ject sought by the gentleman from Guilford if that object was simply to strike out the word "constitutional. He, however, endorsed the resolutions passed yesterday, in their general terms, and hoped that if the vote by which they were adopted was reconsidered they would not be materially altered. Mr. Finger opposed the resolutions He saw no use in them, and the nearest he could come to supporting them would be to support the substitute of the Senator from Guilford. He thought however, that whatever was going to be done should be done quickly, lest we be too late to influence Congress in the matter and it should do something fool-Mr. Robins hoped no reconsideration would be had. He saw no use from the first in the passage of the resolutions. but wanted now to dispose of them the shortest possible time. After further debate on the motion to reconsider, Mr. Troy asked for the previous question. Mr. Cunningham asked for the yeas and nays. The vote being taken resulted: yeas 14; nays 20. The motion to reconsider did not prevail. Mr. Scales then introduced the folwing resolution: Resolved by the Senate, the House con curring. That the people of North Caro lina earnestly desire a peaceful solution of the question of the Presidential election, and will cordially endorse any peaceful and constitutional method adopted by the Congress of the United States for its settlement.

[This he had previously proposed a substitute for the resolutions of Mr Robinson. 1 The Senate declined to suspend the rules for the purpose of considering the resolution, and upon motion of Mr. Scales, it went on the calendar, ed business of yesterday. The bill gives the control to a Board of nine Directors, the Governor appointing 6 on the part of the State and the private stockholders choosing 3. Mr. Staples offered an amendment to the preamble, and also making the pro posed Board of Directors consist of 5 to the part of the State and 4 on the part of the private stockholders.

Mr. Moring, the introducer of the bill. accepted the amendment. Mr. Staples took the floor in advocacy of the bill. He also reviewed the various acts passed in regard to the road, and went into a brief analnysis of the evidence heretofore taken regard to the past management. He contended that the Western Railroad Company did not construct the road until the State became a stockholder to the tune of $600,000. He sketched at length the inancial management of the road from its inception down to the present time. He stated that the State had 11,000 shares in the road, and every one of the present Directors were from the city of Fayetteville; the President was also from the same city. This was a wrong to the other sections of the State through which the road ought, and was designed, to pass. Notwithstanding the large interest of the State in the road it was now simply a tributary to the city of Fayetteville and gave no benefit to any other section. As the road now runs the people along the line were compelled to ship their produce to Fayetteville where it was taken on boats owned by the present Directors and shipped to Wilmington. It was the interest of Fayetteville that the road should go no further, but this was not the interest of the State. The present policy of the management of this road was different from that pursued by the State toward all the other roads in which she had a controlling interest. The State did not subscribe her money to this road simply for the benefit of the city of Fayetteville or the county of Cumberland, but for the benefit of the whole State, in that it was intended to develop the resources of a rich and fertile section through which an inch of it has not yet been built. Leaving the management in the hands of men whose only aim was so to manage so as to build up the town of Fayetteville, thereby enhancing their own interest, was manifestly unjust to other sections and contrary to the policy of the State. As long as the management was left in the hands of the present Directors it would not be extended one inch. The State should take charge of and protect her interest. We had now an executive who would appoint good men to take charge of the property; who would not sacrifice the interest of the State to the idea that Fayetteville was the hub of the State and the Cape Fear river the only outlet to the sea. Mr. Clarke, of Craven, favored the passage of the bill. Mr. McGehee said the State had not suffered in the present management, and he had heard no reason why it should be changed. From all he could gather the interest of the State had been in charge. It had been admitted that when the road was controlled by the State peculation and plunder had prevailed, but when the road passed into the affairs were properly managed and the State fully the interest of protected. He said that he knew that the people of Fayetteville would heartily join in any proper effort to extend the oad according to the original design The eloquent appeal of the gentleman from Guilford (Mr. Staples)was made in behalf of people who never had subscrib ed one cent to the road. If the gentleman's people were so much interested in the extension of this road, why had they not made some substantial effor in this direction? Mr. McGeehce continued for some better time to urge his obto the bill.

Mr. Powell next occupied the floor in advocacy of the bill. He said that the people of Chatham county believed that as long as the management of the road remained in the present hands it would not be extended one inch. He urged the passage of the bill in short but point-

Mr. McLean next spoke in opposition to the bill. He spoke of the excellent management of the gentleman in control at present. They were men of the highest personal integrity and true and faithful sons of the State. They had stood by the road, and the interest of the State, when the dark cloud of Radi calism hung like a pall of desolation over the State, and saved it from the ruin that overtook other works of internal improvements. Should the State now prove ungrateful? Should these gentlemen who have proved such faithful and watchful guardians be uncere noniously turned out of office? Mr. McLean continued at length to urge his people of Fayetteville and of Cumber-land. They were a well objections to the bill. He knew the people, and asked nothing of the State which was improper for it to grant.

Mr. Rose next occupied the floor in reply to the arguments brought for ward in support of the bill. He reviewed the arguments, pro and con, and con cluded his speech by an eloquent appeal to the House to reject the bill as a matter of justice to his people, and for the enhancement of the true and substantial nterest of the State.

Mr. Moring next took to the floor, and proceeded to sum up the reasons why the bill should become a law. He said that the Howell suit was the only thing like an investigation that had shed a ray of light upon the interior workings of the present management, &c.
At the conclusion of Mr. Moring's remarks a vote was taken and the bill

Mr. Purnell, rep., could endorse the resolutions with his whole heart. He alluded to the electoral bill as non-partisan and intended to bring out an honest count. He did not think any man, be he Democrat or Republican, could afford to support any man who should be counted in by rascality or fraud. He hoped that the resolutions would be adopted in the form in which they came

A Colored Girl Fearfully Burned. Yesterday morning about 1 o'clock, the family of A. C. Sanders, Esq., was aroused from sleep by the pierciug screams of some one as if in deep pain. Mr. Sanders arose, and running out in his night-clothes, discoverved a colored servant girl, Rosa Higgs by name, running to and fro in the yard in a perfect sheet of flame and screaming in a distressing manner. Two or threee negr women were in chase of her, but she avoided them, and finally getting out of the yard, ran up street enveloped in a blaze of light and screaming at every step, until she was finally overtaken in front of the residence of Mr. J. M. Towles, on Wilmington street, between Davie and Martin. By this time she was absolutely naked, and from head to feet was burned dreadfully. Exhausted from fright and exertion and her whole body burnt raw, she was carried back to Mr. Sanders's and Dr. James McKee sent for. He administered all possible remedies, but left her finally in the greatest suffering and with grave doubt of her recovery. The girl, instead of going to bed, had lain down in front of the fire and gone to sleep, and no doubt a spark flew out and ignited her clothing. As a result, she was terribly burned, and not only so, but the kitchen very narrowly es-

More Corner Stones Needed. The Board of Aldermen, at its next meeting, should make arrangements to have more corner stones put up at the street crossings. We were noticing, yesterday, at the intersection of Fayetteville and Hargett streets, that there is a crying need for some action in the matter indicated. At the locality named there are four corner stones-one at each corner. Four men monopolized each stone, one man to each side of each stone, making accommodations for only sixteen men, and these sixteen leaned complacently against the several sides of the several stones, to the entire exclusion of at least sixteen others, all of whom had chicken feathers sticking to their clothes, and the knees of whose pants gave unmistakable evidence that they had had some experience in crawling from under the sides of smoke-

House Burned.

The dwelling house of Jno. Rand. Esq., eight miles south of this city, at what is known as Rand's Mills, was entirely destroyed by fire Thursday night about 11 o'clock. The family had retired, and when the flames were discovered they had gained such headway that the inmates only succeeded in escaping in their night clothes. Nothing whatever of the contents of the house was saved, not even any of the wearing apparel of the family. The origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is roughly estimated at $3,000. It is thought that there was no insurance upon the prop-

Death of J. G. Marier.

It is with regret that we receive the intelligence of the death of this gentleman, Senator from the 33d district in the present General Assembly. In the death of Mr. Marler the State loses an useful and faithful son, and his own immediate section will feel his loss in an especial manner. During his comparatively short career, he was called upon to fill a number of offices of trust and honor, both in his county and State. He was a member of the convention of 1868, but not being in accord with the reconstruction policy of the party whose behests General Canby was placed in our midst to carry out, he was summarily ejected. Afterwards he represented his county in the lower House of the General Assembly for two consecutivy terms, and during the last election was chosen Senator from the 33d Senatorio district. His death deprives Yadkin county of one of its most useful citizens, and takes from the State one of its truest

Mr. Marler was taken ill before the Christmas recess, and going home there remained until he died.

A Good Hit. Capt. Crawford, of Rowan, got off a good hit in the Senate yesterday morning. The debate was on the bill of Senator Moore, col., of New Hanover. for the protection of buzzards. Senator Askew had moved to amend by striking out buzzards and saying "vultures." but afterwards withdrew the amendment. When the vote came, Senator Crawford, not having heard Senator Askew withdraw his amendment, arose and desired to know whether he was about to vote on "buzzards" or "vultures." If on the latter, he desired the penalty for killing one to be made greater than $5. He understood a vulture to mean a carpet-bagger, and if the price was put down so low somebody might kill his friend Thorne, an I then we would have troops. He didn't want any $5 insurrection and would vote against the bill if "vultures" was to be inserted instead of buzzards."

Don't Delay the Matter.

The Sunny Side, of Shelby, says "there are now nine families in Belmont and twenty-two children. [Belmont is in Cleaveland county.] That is two babies and four-ninths of a baby to each family. An increase of five would give each family three-too many to sleep in one bed but not enough to fill two : so we suggest that these nine families borrow a sufficient number of children to raise the number to thirty-six-four to each family-and then send up a peti tion to the Legislature to have their town incorporated.

We cannot understand why days of hesitancy and delay will be indulged in when a dose of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup will ease and cure the worst cough and cold. Price 25 cents.

We call attention to the special notice of Messrs. A. C. Sanders & Co., and their advertisement in to-day's issue. They are men who say what they mean, and mean what they say. So we would advise all who owe them to call on them over Dodd's corner, with the cash as soon as they finish reading this, or somebody will have trouble. They still handle the old Star guano and intend paying particular attention to the cotton and commission business in which they are une pualled.

A Year of Momentous Political Events.

Prospectus of the Raleigh News.

Momentous events are thronging to the front. Two political parties of the country are marshaling their intellectual for the constitutional battle, on which hangs the fate of the government for the ensuing four years, perhaps for all the time. From now until the 4th of March the republic will be the theatre of a drama more thrilling in interest than any before enacted in America, to be followed, in all probability, by a period of the profoundest concern to all our people. Some predict a terrible clash of arms, but whether or not war results from the turbulent condition of the public mind, it is certain that the year 1877 will see thick crowding occurrences of great moment. Of these events and circumstances the News will be a watch icler. Its news will be the freshest and fullest that competent and experienced journalists can obtain on whatever field the same is to be collected.

The NEWS will endeavor, in its editorial course, to uphold the constitution publican form of government. It wil counsel moderation in the treatment of political questions, but firmness in the defence and maintenance of right, as the ouly foundation of enduring peace.

The NEWs is the authorized organ of the Democratic party. In all its departments-News and Correspondence, Political, Commercial, Financial, Agricultural, Local, Miscellaneous, &c., the NEWS will at least sustain the character it has so long held, and which has been acknowledged in thousands of commendations from the

THE sceptre of power has departed from the foul grasp of Morton. The resolution approving the compromise bill passed our House of Representatives yesterday. In the the matter of the electoral bill, Mr. Tilden and Mr. Haves both follow Mr. Vanderbilt's homely advice to his heir-"Finally, keep your mouth shut." MR. CONKLING's speech on the electoral bill is regarded as the greatest effort of his life. It has won him a proud place before the country. THE "Sunny Side," a new candidate for public favor, published at Shelby, Cleaveland county, by J. T. Babington, Esq., has put in an appearance in this of fice. It is a bright, newsy paper, and we wish it success.

THE Fayetteville Gazette falls into error in stating that "the Legislature has given to Mr. Gudger, of Madison, the Superintendency of the North Carolina Asylum for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind." The appointment of Mr. Gudger was made by the Board of Directors oft he Asylum, and not by the General Assembly.

THE impression got abroad that the Indiana R y ublicans were solidly against the passage of the electoral bill. This turns out to be a mistake. When Mr. Conkling rose to begin his great speech in the Senate Wednesday he held a telegram in his hand addressed to the Senate committee on the electoral vote.

surprise of Mr. Morton, was signed by thirty-seven Republicans and three Democrats, and its purpose was to thank the joint committee for agreeing upon a pian for the settlement of the Presidential question, and expressing an earnest desire that the bill under discussion, and which was to give Congressional sanction to the plan, may be come a law. Among the signers were an ex-Governor and ex-Lieutenant Governor of Indiana, the Republican candidate for Attorney General at the October election, and Gen. Benjamin Harrison, the Republican candidate for Governor. There was 'loud laughter' in the Senate when Mr. Conkling handed the telegram over to Mr. Morton but whether Mr. Morton joined in is not stated. After this little but significant episode Mr. Conkling resumed his discussion of the bill and made, as on the day before. an able argument in defence of it.

REV LUMONIN SENTIMENT. There are many indications of revolution in sentiment among the Northern republicans, which point to a bright political future for our common country, and mark the begining of an era in which the haters of the South will figure as a hopeless and repudiated minority. Mr. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, a bitter malignant extremist, gives place in the United States Senate to Mr Hoar, a new England statesman of broad and liberal views. In Illinois, Mr. Logan, one of the most violent among the Republican leaders of the North, was defeated for the Senate by Judge Davis, of the Supreme Court, Republican of so much integrity, staunch patriotism, and devotion to the Constitution as well as generous feeling towards the south, that his name was prominently mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Judge Davis was run in the Senatorial contest by the Democrats, after they found it impossible to elect Governor Palmer. The defeat of Logan is a signal triumph for the friends of the cause of reconciliation as well as for the advocates of reform. Commenting upon the fate of Logan, the Baltimore Sun's Washington correspondent moralizes as follows: One by one the roses fall. First it was Colfax and Chandler and Carpenter, and so on. Yesterday it was Boutwell, and to-day it is Logan. It is true that President Grant plucked Chandler from the obscurity to which the people had consigned him, and again put him in high place. But this was only for a brief time, and after the 4th of March Chandler will join Logan, Boutwell et id omne genus. Gen. Logan, whose death knell was sung yesterday in the Illinois Regislature, is perhaps one of the worst of the type of men who long after the hush of arms have done their utmost to perpetuate the burning and bitter strifes and memories encendered by civil war The rapid and involuntary disappearance of such men from public life is a cheering indication that their teachings and their precepts do not take deep root. There are a few more of such men left. and if they do not speedily take heed by the fate of their associates it will not be long before they will follow them to the same obscurity. But the most significant of all the events which indicate a change in sentiment among the Republicans North, is the overthrow of Morton. Sherman and their confederates, in the passage of the electoral bill. The malignant faction which followed the Indiana Senator to the very extremes of partisan hate of the South, can no longer control the destinies of the Republican party. much less the Republic. They have been relegated to back seats at Washington; and the reins of power fall into the hands of more moderate, more patriotic, and more virtuous men. Conkling leads a new liberal movement, but, unlike Greeley and Sumner, he leads it amid the applause of the whole nation, and his standard was hardly erected be fore the light of victory blazed upon it.

COMPOSITION OF THE ELECTO.

RAL TRIBUNAL. As the electoral bill will undoubtedly ecome a law, speculation is already active respecting the composition of the tribunal. The New York Herald says:

"Only four of the fifteen members are yet known; the others are to be selected on Tuesday next. The four known members are Justices of the Suprema Court, designated in the bill by their circuits. The names of the Justices of these four circuits are Clifford, of Maine; Miller, of Iowa: Field, of California, and Strong, of Pennsylvania-Clifford and Field being classed as Democrats, Miller and Strong as Republicans. We do not believe that any of the four will act as a partisan in so important a trust, when every member of the tribunal is to be sworn to "give a true judgement agreeably to the constitution and the laws." We should as soon expect partisanship on the Bench of the Supreme Court itself. These four Justices are to select a fifth, and it is absurd for anybody to predict on whom their choice will fall. Judge Davis has been mentioned as a probable selection, but this is utterly without warrant, for it rests entirely in the discretion of the other four, who have too exact a sense of propriety to give any previous intimation of their preference. The country will be satisfied with whatever selection they may make, for it is not to be supposed that any Judge of the Su-An eccentric Englishman some time preme Court would act as a partisan on ago left his daughters by will their so grave an occasion. The four will act on a deep sense of responsibility in selecting the fifth, and it is hardly in their power to make a bad choice from a Bench all of whose members stand high in public confidence.

"The ten members of the tribu al to be chosen by the two Houses my, perhaps, comprise some strong partisans, but if so they will be equally bulanced. But it would be a mistake to him not far from $3,000,000. put any violent partisan on a commission tice. The only grounds of selection should be eminent character, high intelligence, a judicial turn of mind and established confidence in the integrity of the men. If ten of the fourteen members of the joint committee should be taken, the tribunal would be wisely composed, and, as its judgment is likely to be final, public acquiescence will be ready and hearty in proportion to the all in "printing letters." personal respect felt for its members. Five are to be chosen in each house by a riva roce vote, and we trust that all aggressive partisanship may be dropped in the discharge of so important a duty. Let the personal composition of the tribunal be what it may, we are confident that none of its decisions will depend upon a single vote. There is more likely to be a strong majority of the tribunal in favor of every decision, because all the members will be sworn to abjure partisanship and give a judgment according to law." The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says that "in regard to the possible selection of Justice Davis as a member of the proposed tribunal to determine the contested electoral votes, it was asserted to-day in wellinformed quarters that, whether elected Senator or not, Justice Davis would the tribunal, because he undoubtedly has been more or less identified with politics by reason of the prominent mention of his name as a candidate for the Presidency both in 1872 and 1876. It was said that, contrary to the general memorable Convention which took the impression, the fifth member of the tribunal would be either Justice Bradley or Justice Hunt, both of whom are known as prominent Republicans, but who are not the less looked upon as just out the war with that General. and upright judges."

It is hardly probable that any but a will be chosen as the fifth member of ginal abilities, his eminent candor, his the commission. Public opinion, to say nothing of the sanctity of a judicial nothing of the sanctity of a judicial noble manifess on all occasions. No oath, will force the selection of one man ever complained that he was other whom the country has confidence will than frank. A man of ripe attainments, "give a true judgment agreeably to the constitution and the laws." That is all said with the distinctest truth that he Mr. Tilden or his friends can desire. was a chevaiier and a geatleman. Death of Robert Strange.

[Wilmington Journal-1 The announcement of the sudden striking down, in the midst of a legal argument, by an attack of paralysis of Col. Robert Strange was a startling event in our city only to be surpassed by the subsequent announcement made a few hours later that the distinguished and beloved citizen was dead. Robert Strange was born in Favette-ville, N. C., on the 27th of July, 1823, and was therefore at the time of his decease in the fifty-fourth year of his age. His father, Judge Robert Strange, was one of the ablest and most noted men of his day, and the son lived up to the high moral and intellectual standard of the father. Robert Strange was educated in Fayetteville, and was sent to the University of North Carolina, where he graduated in an able class in 1841. We do not know precisely the date of his commencing the practice of law. Towards the close of the Mexican war he was made Paymaster of the army probably not be selected as a member of and in 1852 he was elected a member of the Legislature from New Hanover county.

Col. Strange was twice Solicitor of this District, once by the appointment of Judge Saunders and once by election. He was chosen one of the delegates to the State Convention in 1861, that State out the Union. He was afterwieds aide to Goy. Ellis, which position give him the rank of Colonel. He was transferred from the Governor's staff to that of Gen. Bragg, and served through

Since the war Col. Strange has deve ted himself exclusively to the practice of law. At the bar he was justly es fair-minded and strictly impartial man | teemed for his great learning, his orifaithful application, his high courtesy, his pure and elevated character and hi he was modest and conciliatory in his bearing. Of Col. Strange it could be of that amiable type which wins its victories as much by its power of suasion as by its weight of intellect. Col. Strange mission, and will complacently await its any of his compeers abler in those mission, and will complacently await its tient study, collected energy, persuasive oratory or logical statement are required for topmost excellence. No lawyer who has practised at our Supreme Court bar was better able to engage the ear of the Court than he. Col. Strange was twice married, the first time to Miss Caroline Wright, daughter of Dr. Thomas H. Wright, of Senator Bayard says that the instinct | this city; the last to Mrs. Bettie Lane, of the people for self-preservation was of Henderson, of Granville county. He leaves a widow and five children.

In this brief and necessarily hurried notice, it is as difficult to characterize the man as it is to group the facts of his useful life. A citizen, so beloved and so honored, requires no eulogy in a community where his virtues and abilities shone with distinguished lustre. Yet we cannot help lingering over the bier, so to speak, and taking a last look district, the Supreme Court of the at the dead while we think of the loss State, the Governor, the Legislature, his departure has caused to a devoted family, a city full of friends, a State which appreciated him as one of her noblest sons. May the Great Father be served so faithfully temper the anguish of this great bereavement to the afflicted ones of his household!

The Tobacco Tax.

[Durham Tobacco Plant.] The assessment of a large amount of taxes against our manufacturers of smoking tobacco by the Commissione of Revenue and the notification that the government would proceed to collect it caused no little anxiety among our business men generally. But it gives us pleasure to state that the Commissioner has removed the tax and everything moves on as before. Our manufacturers held a meeting last week and appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Duke, Carr and Roulhae to go to Washington and lay the case before the Commissioner. However, the petition of each manufacturer had preceded the committee and before they arrived in Washington the tax had been removed. They went before the Commissioner and found that everything was perfectly satisfactory. This tax was on the waste in working tobacco, and all the government desires is that the waste in stems, dust &c., shall be accounted for in the monthly

reports. A PROCLAMATION

[N. Y. Herald.] The thronging multitudes who filled the galleries of the Senate chamber to overflowing and hung on the lips of the senior Senator from New York during the delivery of his speech was not so much a personal tribute to the man as demonstration of deep interest in the ubject. Popular feeling has not been so deeply stirred since the first year of the civil war as at present. It is felt that the peace of the country is staked on the success of the pending measure, and the people do not believe that there is any principal involved in this Presidential contest important enough to ustify a resort to arms. It was very different in 1861, when the federal Union vas in peril. The people of this courty, he mercantile classes of this country, are always ready to sacrifice their immediate interests on an adequate oceopardy they were united as one man in an ardent and patriotic readiness to surrender their business prospects, their property, all their private interests to a great public object. But they are not willing to make such sacrifices when nothing is involved of more consequence than the distribution of the nederal patronage by one set or another set of spoils-hunting politicans. As a general rule peace is the paramount interest of the country. There are, indeed, higher interests, but it is not often that any higher interest requires peace, commerce and material welfare to be subordinated to it. Our national life is exposed to only two emergencies which lemand an uncalculating surrender of material interests. These are, first, an insult to the national honor by a foreign government, and, second, an attempt to lestroy the Union or resist the laws by misguided citizens. In all inferior exigencies the chief interest of the country is order and tranquillity. The sound sense and honest patriotism of the pecple are new strongly enlisted on the side of peace, because they do not think the present controversy important enough to justify a resort to force, especially when it is so practicable and so easy to bring it to a legal decision by a peaceful method. The great mass of merchants, bankers and manufacturers, seeing nothing more important in the present conflict than the question whether Mr. Hayes or Mr. Tilden shall appoint the subordinate officers of the ederal government, and whether one or the other of them has been legally elected, prefer to have the legal question decided by a fair legal method, in the expectation that business will revive from its long stagnation as soon as a final decision is reached. The business classes, the laboring classes, all except politicians by trade, are, therefore, eager, anxious and unanimous that the pend-

This feeling is decided and intense in every centre of commerce, and will be expressed with reverberating emphasis if any doubt shall be thrown on the triumphant passage of the bill. Even though its success seems assured many such expressions from the great trade centres have been made. There was a meeting of four thousand business men of Boston yesterday in Faneuil Hall, that ancient "Cradle of Liberty," strongly indorsing the Electoral bill. The Boston meeting yesterday was significant because Massachusetts is one of the stanchest of Republican States, and because she has just elected a Senator who is strongly committed to the Elec-toral bill. The contest was very close between Mr. Hoar and Mr. Boutwell until the news reached Boston that Mr. Hoar had signed the report of the joint committee, when the Massachusetts Legislature at once expressed their strong approval of his action by electing him to the Senate. The great meeting in Faneuil Hall gives the added emphasis of a "sober second thought" to the previous vigorous indorsement of the course of Mr. Hoar. If a similar indorsement of Senator Conkling should be thought necessary it will be overbe thought necessary it will be over-whelmingly given by the unanimous business classes of this city. They have as yet taken no formal public action, because all indications point to the triumphant success of the bill. But if any doubt should be felt a vast meeting of our business classes could be assembled on a day's notice whose united voice would leave no doubt as to the sentiment of the commercial metropolis. After the passage of the bill, of which there is no reasonable doubt, the New York merchants will make a suitable recognition of the services of Mr. Conkling. They will not permit him to pass through the city on his way home without offering him the compliment of a great public dinner, exceeding in magnificence that given to Mr. Webster on a memorable occasion. If Congress can be certain of anything not proved before one of its committees by sworn testimony it may be certain that the business men of New York indorse the pending bill and warmly indorse Senator Conkling for his able advocacy of it. The attempt of a few eccentric and crotchety members of the Union League Club to excite partisan hostility makes no impression on Republican merchants, because they know that President Grant, Secretary Fish and all the wisest members of their party are giving the bill a strong moral support. The screechy opposition of a few extreme partisans is without influence here, and this great commercial community anticipates with serene confidence the prompt success of this great nealing measure conceived in the interest of justice and peace.

Denial of Nash's Bribery Charge Against Cot. Childs -- Success Humpton's State Administration.

[By telegraph to the N. Y. Herald.] COLUMBIA, Jan. 25, 1877. The announcement that State Senator Beverly Nash, colored, had testified tobefore the House Committee at Washington that Colonel Childs, Presi dent of the Carolina National Bank, had attempted to bribe him (Nash) to cast his vote as a Presidential elector for Tilden, creates quite a sensation. While the committee was in session here it was once hinted that this same testimony was to be brought out, but for political reasons it was held back until the most could be made of it in the present critical condition of affairs at the national capital. Nash, who was a former hotel porter and boot black, at the close of the war adopted politics as a profession, and by his shrewdness as a State Sena tor became wealthy, and is now report ed to be worth $75,000. It is alleged here that he was mixed up in all the corrupt jobs for which the South Carolina Legislature has been so infamous, and surprise was chiefly manifested here at the statement that Nash had declined a bribe of any sort.

MR. CHILDS' DENIAL.

Mr. Childs, who is extremely ill, was very indignant when he was notified of the charge, and insists upon going to Washington, against the protest of his physicians, to refute it. He denies bavever had any conversation with Nash upon such a subject; says he has no knowledge of any funds for such purposes, and that in frequent recent conversations with Nash, the latter had never alluded to the charges or state ments contained in his testimony Childs promptly prepared an affidavit to the above effect, which will be forwarded to Washington at once, and he will follow it with such other testimony as he claims will effectually dispose of the representations by Nash. Mr. Childs is over sixty years old and has been in very feeble health for the pass two years. He is one of the wealthiest men in the city, of the highest social standing and the strictest integrity.

SUCCESS OF HAMPTON'S STATE GOVERN

Hampton's government is now nearly complete. The appointees throughout the State are in the main exercising the functions of their respective offices and he is daily receiving the best assurances of loyalty from the masses of the people. Already, under the call for ten per cent of last year's tax levy, Hampton's treasurer has received $35,000, nearly half of the whole amount, from nine counties only. The charitable institutions and penitentiary have been | DAILY NEWSPAPER provided for, the judges have been paid their salaries, and the entire machinery of government is in thorough workin order. Chamberlain officials are unable to collect taxes, and if the company of United States troops now in the State House was withdrawn the force of a dual government would be ended.

A Brief Pen Sketch of the North Carolina Delegation in the Forty-fourth Congress. [From our Washington correspondent.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23. The first district is represented by Maj. J. J. Yeates, of Murfreesboro, a genial, whole-souled gentleman. He has done good work for his party in redeeming his district from a large republican majority to an increased Democratic gain. He makes a most useful member. From the third comes the comes the brave, chivalrous and brilliant Waddell, of Wilmington, a fine polished speaker. quick in debate, always ready to share any responsibility that may arise. His prospects are bright for future political usefulness in national affairs. The fourth is well represented by Capt. J. J. Davis, of Louisburg, a lawyer of fine ability, a safe legislator, always exercising cau-tion before casting his vote on any measure. The interest of the metropolitan district is well watched by its efficient representative. The fifth has Gen. A. M. Scales, of Greensboro, the christian statesman, an able lawyer, an honest politician and true friend. He has had more experience in national politics than any of the present delegation from North Carolina. He was a representative in Congress before the war, and although a young man then, he showed decided promise of soon coming to the front as a prominent Democrat. He is at present chairman of the Committee on Indian affairs and discharges the intricate duties of that position with credit to himself and satisfaction to his friend. His modesty only prevents him from becoming one of the leaders of the House. From the sixth is T. S. Ashe, of Wadesboro, a most excellent gentleman, a sound and intelligent lawyer, a profound thinker, deep reasoner, true to his party and friends. It is to be regretted that the State loses such a worthy representative. It is claimed by his friends that he will be the next Governor of his State. From the seventh is the peerless Robbins, of Statesville, of fine personal appearance, bright and cultivatefi intellect, thorough in his profession, that of the law, fluent and able in debate, bold and determined in whatever he undertakes. He is said to be the rising star in the political firmament of his native State. The eighth is represented by Gen. Robert B. Vance, of Asheville, who presents a most lovely character, both moral and political. He is a strict member of the M. E. Church and from his daily walk we are induced to believe he is like Cæsar's wife "above suspicion" in every respect. He has many warm friends in the House of both political parties and wields much influence. The old North State may well feel proud of her sons that represent her in the forty-fourth Congress at the Nation's capital.

WASHINGTON.

The Probable Report of the Senate Louislana Investigating Committee -- Hard on the Packard Government -- Chandler's Telegrams--Ex-Gov. Dix Endorses Morton.

Washington, Jan. 26.—It is fore-shadowed that the majority of the Senate's Louisiana investigating committee will claim that enough intimidation was practiced in that State to justify the action of the Returning Board in regard to the electoral vote, but that the Board's action in regard to State officers and the Legislature was illegal. The report will hold that the Legislature should have been organized by the members shown to be elected by the face of the returns. The report may also suggest that Kellogg hold over till the Legislature be organized on this basis, or recommend a provisional military government. The minority report will show that what intimidation did exist is more than offset by the frauds and irregularities of the Retarning Board. It is intimated that two Republican members regard the Packard government unfavorably and will so report specially. C. H. Bush, a Florida telegrapher, testifies that Stearns telegraphed Secretary Chandler that Bismark should be at or near Tallahassee immediately. Chandler replied that he had seen the President and the Secretary of War, and that troops would be sent: knew nothing very definitely; declined to answer whether he had communicated this be-Morton has a letter from ex-Governor

The Quo Warranto Case Dismissed. COLUMBIA, Jan. 26.—The Supreme Court to-day rendered a decision in the quo warranto proceedings against the Hayes electors, dismissing the case on the ground that the proceedings were illegally presented on the part of the State instead of the United States. This technical flaw disposes of the electoral case in this State.

PASSAGE OF THE ELECTORAL BILL.

The Vote on the Great Bill -- Proceed ings in the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The electoral oill passed the House by a vote of 191

The reported interview between the President and Senator Ferry, regarding the then pending electoral bill, pub-lished this morning, is bogus. Thomas Settle, of North Carolina, has been nominated Judge of the Circuit Court of Florida.

In the House the debate to-day on the compromise electoral bill lasted from 10 in the morning till 5 in the evening. It did not abate in interest during the whole seven hours, and from the opening till the adjournment of the session the galleries were crowded and many visitors were admitted to the floor. speeches against the bill were made by Knott, Blackburn and Jones, of Ken-tucky; Mills, of Texas; and Singleton and Lynch, of Mississippi, while Brown, of Kentucky, and Hill, of Georgia, made earnest, patriotic and eloquent appeals for its passage. The two latter speeches were enthusiastically applauded, and it was a notable circumstance that just as Hill concluded his peroration a telegram was put into his hands announcing his election as Senator.

Mr. Speaker Randall exercised his constitutional privilege of voting as a representative from Pennsylvania, and gave his vote in favor of the bill. The vote on its passage was, yeas 191; nays 86. All but 18 of the negatives we e given by Republicaus, Among the 18 were the following: Blackburn, Durham, Jones, Knott and Milligan, of Kentucky; Bradford, Caldwell, Forney and Williams, of Alabama; Mills, of Texas; Singleton, of Mississippi; and Smith, of Georgia.

The bill now goes to the President. Adjourned. SENATE. - Mr. Jones called up the peition of the Democratic Presidential electors of Florida, recently presented by him, asking that their vote be counted as the true return from that State, and addressed the Senate at length in regard to the recent election in that State.

Thurman called up the bill to provide sinking fund for the Pacific Railroads.

Relief Without a Doctor

Though we would by no means be unde stood as deprecating, but rather as recommending, professional aid in disease, there are multitudes of instances when it is neither ecessary or easy to obtain. A family provided with a comprehensive household specific like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is possessed of a medicinal resource adequate to most of a medicinal resource adequate to most emergencies in which medical advice would be otherwise needful. That sterling tonic and corrective invariably remedies, and is authoritatively recommended for debility, indigestion, liver disorder, an irregular habit of body-urinary and uterine troubles, incipient rhue-matism and gout, and many other ailments of frequent occurrence. It eradicates and prevents intermittent and renattent fevers, re, lieves mental despondency, checks premature decay, and invigorates the nervous and muscular tissues. Sleep, digestion and appetite are promoted by it, and it is extremely useful in overcoming the effects of exhaustion and exposure.

LONG CONTRACTS.

As heretofore the JOURNAL will be thoroughly Democratic in politics. In discussing all questions its editor will endeavor to take a road, comprehensive view and to speak the truth without fear of danger from open or secret foes. The JOURNAL has never shrunk from an imposed duty, and has never curried favor with those who were the enemies of popular liberty. It cannot now abandon the cause of the white people of Eastern North Carolina and the cause of their National alies. As before, for twenty-five years, if will defend the people from those who would deceive or oppress them. In encouraging the growth of the indutries of the Commonwealth the JOURNAL will be likewise true to the traditions of the paper. Nothing that would redound to the advantage of all classes of our working population, in town or county, shall be withheld from our readers. All the movements of commerce and finance and the progress of agriculture and the mechanic arts will be faithfully chronicled in the JOURNAL.

The reissue of the JOURNAL is attended with great expense. If all the old friends of the paper would instantly start to work in its behalf the efforts of its proprietor to make it a First-Class newspaper would be eminently successful. He will do his best; let the friends of the JOURNAL do their best. There is reason to believe that such co-operation will result in great good for this section, for the State, and for the Democratic party of the country.
